FORD TO SPEND $30,000,000 FOR IMPROVEMENTS

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

With the proposed location of the fruit exchange here, more than 200 men will receive employment.

Add new simile:

As foolish as going on a motor trip vacation with only one spare tire and four worn tires on the car.

Anyway, so we hear, such a vacation gives one an opportunity to practice changing and mending tires.

But one seldom goes on a vacation for just that, you know.

Have you ever visited the Parr-Richmond wharf at the outer harbor. Have you taken a peek inside of the wharf-shed?

There you will find thousands of cases and barrels of oil which will soon be shipped out to the Orient and to the rest of the world.

And as the big ocean liners dock there, these boxes and barrels are loaded into the hold, by crews of huskies.

Memorial Park is now rapidly becoming a beauty spot of the city.

The lawn and shrubs are of a brilliant shade of green that forms a beautiful setting for the hall building.

Richmond can well be proud of its Memorial park and its bandstand, which are the best in this region.

DETROIT, June 19.—More than $30,000,000 for improvements, including new branch factories, will be spent by Henry Ford this year, according to official announcements made for the Ford company's offices here today.

The expansion program planned by Ford will include new branch plants as well as improvements in the parent plants here.

More than $3,000,000 will be spent by the company on a water tunnel, intake house and pump house at Dearborn, which will be one of the largest industrial tunnels of its kind in the world.

Nearly $1,000,000 will be spent to enlarge the power house that supplies power to the Dearborn plants, while miscellaneous improvements will account for another $1,500,000.

Another $5,000,000 is to be expended on the Edison Institute of Technology and other activities of Henry Ford not directly associated with the automobile and airplane plants.

SHELL BUYS NICHOLS SITE

MARTINEZ, June 19.—A site of 613 acres at Nichols was purchased today by the Shell Chemical company, at a price understood to have been about $400,000, the plant to be built at an expenditure of between five and seven million.

The properties purchased included 533 acres from J. G. Hamilton of Burlingame and an additional 80 acres from James Fitzgerald, O. F. Clayton, Dr. S. H. Marks and J. M. Ough. Hamilton also assigned to the chemical corporation a lease on 20 acres of tidelands that he obtained from the state. The lease is operative until 1935.

The location is just east of the General Chemical company's plant. Some of the personnel will be drawn from the Shell Oil company plant at Martinez and fertilizer and various kinds of chemicals will be manufactured.

Bouquet Death Held Suicide

A verdict of suicide was returned by an Oakland coroners jury yesterday in the death of John Bouquet, retired Oakland merchant and former Richmond resident, who shot himself recently in front of the Grant D. Miller Morgue here. Premeditation in the act was established by a note found on his body in which he gave his address, 433 Bellvue avenue and asked that the remains be turned over to Grant D. ### In Race

JUDGE ODELL IN JUSTICE COURT RACE

Judge C. A. Odell, by filing his nominating papers at Martinez yesterday, entered the race for Justice of the Peace of the Fifteenth Judicial Township, whose boundaries are the same as those of the City of Richmond. This makes three in the fight.

The announcement was not unexpected as rumors have been current for some time that he would be a contender for the office.

It is generally conceded that Odell will be a strong candidate, as he is a well known pioneer resident of the city, a practicing attorney for years, and for the past twelve years has been judge of the police court of the City of Richmond, where he has made a record of which he may well feel proud.

Judge Odell is a man of family and a property owner here. He came to Richmond in 1889, soon after the Santa Fe railway company began construction work here; assisted in the erection of some of the first buildings on the West Side—then called Point Richmond—and soon established his law offices on Washington avenue.

In 1908 the Judge opened law offices over the drug store at Sixth street and Macdonald avenue, where he was joined in 1912 by the late D. J. Hall and actively engaged in the practice of law until March, 1918, when Odell was appointed by the City Council as judge of the police court.

Human salvage has been one of the great objects of this candidate and in dealing with all kinds of people in his police court work, his aim has been to aid in up-building the individual.

Judge Odell, belongs to the Woodmen of the World, Masonic and Eastern Star lodges of this city.

CAROL TO BE EFFICIENCY EXPERT

By ALEXANDER HURTIG
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright in All Countries, 1930, by United Press)

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 19.—UP—Rejuvenation of Rumania by American efficiency methods, while at the same time keeping the spirit of progress in accordance with the traditions of the Rumanian people, is the expressed aim of King Carol II, new ruler of Rumania.

The king received the United Press correspondent in audience today, and discussed frankly his intentions regarding the conduct of his country's affairs, and his plans for the education of his son Michael, the former "boy" king.

The affairs of state already have begun to weigh heavily on Carol, the gay prince who gave up a throne for love, and then made his dramatic return into power in a swiftly executed coup d'etat.

King Charges

The king received the correspondent in his study. It was the sixth time I have seen him since his return, and it was noticeable that he had lost the beaming, jovial facial expression so widely commented on the historic day (Continued on Page 5)

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—UP—Morris Lavine, former newspaper man, and Miss Leontine Johnson, former secretary to S. C. Lewis, president of the bankrupt Julian Petroleum corporation, must face a second trial on a charge of attempted extortion.

The district court of appeals today denied Lavine's request for a writ of prohibition which would have prevented a retrial. A similar plea by Miss Johnson was denied yesterday.

A superior court disagreed at the first trial and the second was set for June 1. Miss Johnson and Lavine were accused of attempting to secure $75,000 from Charlie Crawford, politician, to keep his name out of articles about the Julian case they were preparing for Lavine's paper.

BYRD TELLS OF POLAR FINDS

NEW YORK, June 19.—UP—Rear Admiral Byrd and 67 men came home from the South Pole today, bronzed, weatherbeaten, but healthy and happy.

They walked into one of the greatest welcoming outbursts New York has ever accorded a national hero.

From early morning until late evening they were the center of demonstrating crowds, having to beg for brief bits of rest and opportunities to greet families and friends, which they got.

New Data

The expedition brought back probably the greatest collection of scientific data ever gathered by one group of men. The party's scientific staff will spend many months, turning the data into four thick volumes. Byrd himself will write a fifth volume, which will be the history of the expedition. "The most important result of the expedition," said Byrd when he met with about 30 newspaper reporters late this afternoon, "is the geographic information which we secured."

"Next I would rank the geological discoveries."

He revealed that Carman Land, supposedly discovered and named by Amundsen, was non-existent. "But Amundsen must not be criticized for that," Byrd hastened to explain. "The tricks of the atmosphere creating constant mirages are almost unbelievable. Undoubtedly these mirages were responsible for Amundsen's error. We all have for Amundsen the highest regard."

The expedition's geologists established the existence in the Antarctic of a great carbon deposit, sufficient to supply the world with fuel for many years.

? What Does The Morrow Hold In Store

LESSER, AIDS FOUND GUILTY IN PAVE GRAFT

OAKLAND, June 19.—UP—After deliberating since 1:40 Wednesday afternoon, a jury returned a verdict of guilty on three counts of an indictment charging paving graft against Harry Lesser, head of the California Construction company, at 11:07 a. m. today.

Convicted with Lesser, although on only two and one counts of the indictment, respectively, were A. A. Horwege and James Austin, also officials of the same paving concern.

The sentences of the trio were to be pronounced Monday by Superior Judge Fred V. Wood, in whose court the trial was held.

The convictions carry a sentence of from 1 to 14 years at San Quentin, on each count of the indictment, although the sentences will be served concurrently.

The indictment charged conspiracy to bribe, conspiracy to have a public official omit his duties, and bribery of Frank Phillips, Oakland paving contractor.

Theodore Roche, defense attorney for the trio, stated that he will immediately carry an appeal of the convictions to a higher court.

The trial excited considerable interest. Testimony was offered that the firm had a paving inspector on its payroll, and testimony of handwriting experts was given to prove this by examination of checks made out by the concern.

Citizens also testified as to the poor quality of some of the paving work of the California Construction company.

ANTIOCH, June 19.—A fire that last night destroyed a stack of 350 tons of straw at the plant of the Fireboard Products company, was today attributed to spontaneous combustion. The loss was estimated at $4,000.

An adjacent stack was saved by company and city firemen.

WOMAN HELD ON FRAUD CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—Because Mrs. Mary McGraw, a fortune teller of 725 Leavenworth street, failed to keep an appointment with him, William Foley, 40 killed himself in his rooms at the Hotel Gordon today.

At the same time Foley wrote a note, drank poison and lay down to die. Mrs. McGraw was arrested by police on a charge of swindling a woman out of $2400 in bonds. At the time that Foley's body was discovered, Mrs. McGraw and a companion George Salaski, were in jail charged with complicity in the swindling affair.

Foley's note, written just before the fatal step, revealed a story of disillusionment and of a blighted romance. Detectives had found it lying on a table in his room when they forced their way into the death chamber.

The note read:

"To Whom It May Concern: "I am leaving this world because of a woman by the name of Mary McGraw. I was supposed to be married to her today. She has three diamond rings of mine and a wedding ring. Show her my lots. She brought in a notary public and I signed over $2500 shares of John White mines. She owes me $680."

The arrest of Mary McGraw was behind the story of the "romance." Mrs. McGraw already on parole from San Quentin, following her conviction in Los Angeles on a charge of grand theft, pled the trade of fortune teller in a way peculiar to herself. The police knew nothing of her activities until Ottolia Kiehule, a cook, came to police headquarters with a complaint about some bonds.

Miss Kiehule said Mrs. McGraw was at 802 Fell street when she met her a year ago. Miss Kiehule declared she went to her, as a fortune teller, to get information on certain family troubles. She mentioned the bonds and Mrs. McGraw induced her to turn over the securities to her, over a long period of time. It is alleged that the bonds were marketed through Salaski, who was able to give the police no local address.

The cook swore to a warrant, and Mrs. McGraw was arrested.

BARREL HOUSE BEATS A.S. TEAM

Artie Schimpf, who plays baseball at times, demonstrated to fans at the First street ball park yesterday afternoon that he still knows his well known onions.

Artie in the sixth struck at the third strike, which the All Standards catcher, Jensen, obligingly dropped. So Artie was given a life at first. He then proceeded to steal second and a few minutes later unbound his dogs and beat it for third, being safe by the well known mile.

Not satisfied with that, Artie decided to steal home.

When Diddler wound up, Artie got going, raising a cloud of dust. When the smoke cleared away he had beaten the throw and was safe.

Thus bringing to mind some old dog-eared phrase or other that should be repeated here—but won't.

As it was, the Barrel House defeated the All Standards by a score of 6 to 2, thus placing them in the lead of the local Standard Oil league. The Refinery is now in second place and the All Standards are in third position.

The Barrel House scored four runs in the sixth inning and two in the seventh.

The All Standards made their runs through the efforts of Wickeser, who hit two home runs with no one on.

PLANES HUNT FOR MISSING PASTOR

TUCSON, Arizona, June 19.—UP—Airplane pilots operating in this section have been requested to keep a lookout for trace of the missing Rev. Thomas W. Howard, a Cochise county officer continued to lead a scattered posse over the desert and along mountain trails in an effort to learn the fate of the 74-year old former Minnesota circuit rider.

All clues have proved futile as Indian trackers and volunteer prospectors continued to seek the aged man who wandered from the Tucson home of his sister, Miss Florence Howard, on June 7.

The missing man's son, Col. Earl Howard, newspaper publisher of Wheaton, Minn., who was to lead the search, today was ordered to return to Wheaton to undergo a surgical operation for removal of a bone in his left leg. The member was injured shortly before Col. Howard came to Tucson when he was struck by a golf ball.

Col. Howard had requested use of the Arizona National Guard in the search for his father, acting through Governor Christianson of Minnesota, who communicated with Governor John G. Phillips, here.

Reed Comes To Defense Of Naval Pact

WASHINGTON, June 19.—UP—Secretary of State Stimson and Senator David A. Reed who was his colleague at the London conference jointly appealed to the American people today in behalf of the London treaty, using the air and the mails as their mediums.

Reed spoke over a national radio network in reply to Senator Hiram Johnson, a fellow Republican, who last night made a blistering radio attack on the treaty and its peace negotiator, Stimson.

Reed called the anti-treaty fight a "tea-pot tempest" and said rejection on the grounds proposed by Johnson would be propositious. Stimson refused to comment on Johnson's reference to him, explaining he would not reply to personalities.

Reed took the Johnson speech as his text.

"Senator Johnson denounced the treaty, but he did not describe it," Reed said. "He does not admit that it contains a single good point or that it gives America any advantages in any respect. As he sees it, the treaty is unqualifiedly bad. I believe that as you listened to Senator Johnson, you must have suspected that there was another side to the story."

Reed challenged Johnson's bill of particulars against the treaty. He said the controversy hinged entirely upon the calibre of guns to be placed on three American cruisers. The navy board asked for 21 vessels with eight inch guns and the treaty provided only 16.

THE WILL TO WIN

The habit of saving money and regularly putting it in the bank yields more than a pile of dollars. It gives us the will to win. It teaches us to value the time and thought and energy we had to expend to earn the money. It puts plan and purpose into our lives, increases endeavor and assures success. It gives us confidence. And in these days of keen competition it takes ability and courage and confidence to win. The man who is worried and fretted hasn't a chance.

The man who has money in the bank has no fear of any other man or of any situation. He has confidence in himself and this inspires the confidence of others. The possession of money earned, saved and in the bank gives a man character. Character gives him confidence, and confidence gives him the power to conquer.

Savings are safe in the bank.
There is no substitute.

Fitts Will Be Summoned In Attic Trial

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—UP—After sensational testimony to the effect that District Attorney Burton Fitts promised to shield Otto Sanhuber, accused slayer of Fred Oesterreich, wealthy garment maker the "attic man's" trial halted abruptly late today when the defense declared Fitts' appearance on the witness stand was imperative to their case.

The district attorney was not in the city and Superior Judge Carlos Hardy recessed court until tomorrow when Fitts will return and probably testify.

Sanhuber, talking hesitantly and writhing in the witness chair, drew the name of the district attorney into the murder case.

"To me Fitts was a threatening god who had to be pacified," Sanhuber testified. "He talked to me before I was to appear before the grand jury. The district attorney said he knew I was the goat in this thing and wanted to help me."

Earl Wakeman, Sanhuber's attorney, made a statement to the court quoting Fitts as telling Sanhuber, that he would receive probation if he pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

Wakeman by introducing the asserted promises of Fitts hoped to prevent the reading of Sanhuber's story to the grand jury in which the state claims he told a weird tale of living in attics of Oesterreich's homes for more than 12 years to be near the garment maker's wife, Walburga Oesterreich.

The state charges that Sanhuber left his attic retreat on the night of August 22, 1922 and shot Oesterreich while the manufacturer was quarreling with his wife.

This Man Puzzled— Lost 19 Pounds of Fat

Wants To Know Where The Fat Went To.

Start taking Kruschen Salts—that's the common-sense way to reduce—but don't take them with the idea that they possess reducing qualities in themselves. This is what they do—they clean out the impurities in your blood by keeping the bowels, kidneys and liver in splendid working shape and fill you with a vigor and tireless energy you'd most forgotten had existed.

This man was fat—60 pounds overweight—wanted to stay home every night and nurse the old arm chair—getting in and out of his auto was all the exercise he cared for—his desire for any form of activity had died years ago.

Then one night as he was reading the evening paper, cheering news broke for him—he read the story of Kruschen Salts—what it was doing for the fat folks of America—they were losing fat—and plenty of it.

The next morning he started—on one generous half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—every morning the same—in a week he wanted to walk to business—he didn't know why—but the surge for activity seemed to flood his whole being and he followed the urge.

His wife was astonished—de-lighted—and when one evening he said with eagerness—"Let's go to a show tonight, dear"—her joy was unbounded.

That virile Kruschen feeling that means more energy—more vigor—more ambition, took possession of him—he took long walks every day—and enjoyed them.

He got on the scales one evening and came home with sprightly step—"eleven pounds of fat gone!" he almost hollered—he danced a few steps with the activeness of youth—and his wife danced with him.

Soon 19 pounds of unwanted and unwanted fat had left him and he marveled—and his friends marveled with him.

"Where did it all go?" he asked and no one could answer. Kruschen Salts drives poisonous waste from the system—it acts on liver, kidneys and stomach and keeps them in tip-top condition—it keeps you feeling fit and fine all the time.

LeMoine Drug Company and leading druggists over America sell Kruschen Salts for 85 cents a bottle which lasts 4 weeks.

SKY HAWK HAS THRILLS OF AIR

Thrills galore and a romance of unusual charm were brilliantly photographed in the "Sky Hawk" the speaking screen's great all talking drama of wartime flying. Timed in the sky, which opened a two day engagement at the Fox-California theater yesterday.

If any further proof of the value of speech in pictures were needed this Fox Movietone feature may be listed as a shining example. Its realism and the dramatic power of its dialogue, as well as to its many spectacular aerial and ground sequences makes this film tower far above all previous such productions. In fact it is a noteworthy contribution to screen history.

The Zeppelin raids over London form the background of the story. A young British aviator, unjustly branded as a coward when he crashes his plane on the eve of his departure for active service and is crippled for life, lies magnificently to release his fiancée from her engagement. Tinkering with an old condemned plane, he manages to put it in flying condition, goes aloft during a Zeppelin attack and brings the giant airship down in flames.

A simple enough story, but all the more human for its simplicity. "The Sky Hawk" has become one of the most impressive pictures of the year because of the excellence of its cast and the flawless direction of John Blystone. John Garrick, the youthful English actor-aviator, a real find, seems to have been born for just this role; and Helen Chandler, former dramatic star of the Theater Guild, who scored as the heroine of "Salute," gives a splendid performance as the girl in the case.

Gilbert Emery, whom audiences will recall as the Scotland Yard detective in "Behind That Curtain" offers an even greater characterization in the role of Mayor Nelson. Billy Bevan, Joyce Compton, Lennox Pawle, Lumsden Hare, Daphne Pollard and other noted players are in the supporting cast, adding to the entertainment qualities of the film.

Also on the program is a talking comedy entitled, "He Trumped Her Ace."

MAMMY SINGER DELUXE IN FILM HERE

Marguerita Padula, mammy singer de luxe, who appears in Radio Pictures' musical offering, "Hit the Deck," now at the Richmond theater, studied voice at the New England Conservatory of Music.

She was born in Worcester, Mass., and has been on the stage since the age of four. For a number of years she toured vaudeville circuits in "Impressions of Famous People," a comedy act.

Recently in New York, William LeBaron, vice president in charge of RKO production, heard her sing the "Hallelujah" song at a private home, and immediately visualized her as Lavinia in "Hit the Deck." She was given a Radio Pictures contract.

In the beginning of Miss Padula's singing career, she was known as a coloratura-soprano. Later her voice has become contralto particularly adaptable to 'blues' singing.

Thrill Film At California Theater Here

No matter whether you're a banker or a bookkeeper, if you can solve the mystery of the Masked Strangler's real identity in "Temple Tower" before the end of the picture, your talents have been wasted. You should have been a detective.

This, at least, is the opinion of Donald Gallaher, director of "Temple Tower," the Fox Movietone mystery thriller which opens at the Fox-California theater tomorrow for one day only.

"The detective mind," says Gallaher, "is primarily an analytical one. A person born with this type of mental equipment can weigh the various conflicting factors in a case, determine which of them is most reliable and in general can determine false evidence from truth."

"Such a person is usually the first to solve puzzles and games of various sorts and the first to guess the identity of the criminal in a detective story or picture, conversely, one who can speedily discover the secret of a mystery picture would probably be successful as a detective, should he turn his talents in that direction."

When "Temple Tower" commences its local showings, it will afford every film fan an opportunity to analyze his or her abilities in the detective field. The Strangler's identity is cleverly concealed throughout the story's action and in the film's exhibition elsewhere, few patrons have been able to discover the secret until the end of the picture.

Kenneth MacKenna plays the leading role of "Bulldog Drummond" in this unique offering, an adaptation of H. C. McNeille's latest mystery novel. Marceline Day and Henry B. Walthall are prominent in the supporting cast.

Also on the program is a Our Gang comedy entitled, "Tough Winter."

WATER TAX CUT SEEN IN BAY DISTRICT

According to an announcement by H. A. Johnston, Richmond member of the board of directors of the East Bay Municipal Utility district, substantial reduction in the water district tax rate this year, further reductions in succeeding years and elimination of the entire tax within five years is in prospect.

Johnston declared that the district directors hope to reduce the tax about 10 cents this year, and although the budget has not yet been finally adopted there is indication that the reduction can be effected. The water district tax last year was 50 cents, the high rate being caused by purchase of the distributing system of the East Bay Water company and the heavy expenditures caused during the completion of the Mokelumne project.

Johnston also revealed that proposals have been made by the Collins interests just north of Richmond to secure utility district water for that area.

German Border Patrolman Slays Polish Official

BERLIN, June 19.—UP—A German border patrolman shot and killed a Polish customs officer today at the boundary near the village of Prostken, in east Prussia, 81 miles southeast of Koenigsberg. The incident aroused high concern here.

It followed closely the Neuhoften clash a month ago which aroused members of the governments of both countries.

The German government immediately dispatched a commission to Prostken.

A thorough inquiry will be made into the shooting, it was declared. The Neuhoften incident resulted in the death of a Polish officer and the wounding of a German frontier official. Germany 10 days ago was preparing a note strongly protesting that affair.

KING TO COPY AMERICAN METHODS

of his appearance before the national assembly when he was proclaimed king.

Carol's plastic smile — reminiscent of his father, King Ferdinand, which lighted up his face on his first free Sunday, when he made an excursion into the country with Prince Michael, — also had vanished. His brow was wrinkled and his expression was serious, but his eyes glistened and exuded energy. A picture of Michael smiled out from behind a hundred documents on the big writing table. The king wore a white naval uniform.

Referring to the king's appearance before the assembly, when he was proclaimed, the interviewer asked:

Lauds Democracy

"You stated you intend to be a constitutional monarch. How is that to be understood?"

"When I swore to the oath of allegiance before the national assembly," King Carol replied, "I said I would respect the constitution and the laws of the country. I intend to rule the nation absolutely constitutionally."

"I believe in democracy in the highest sense of the word. I am convinced that constructive democracy, — administered practically as in the United States — helps to develop the dynamic forces of a nation."

To Modernize

"I want to modernize the country's whole administrative system. I want to try to introduce new methods and a progressive spirit in accordance with the traditions of the Roumanian people. I am an enemy of bureaucratic methods and an admirer of the United States system of work. I hope many American methods can be successfully and usefully applied to Roumania."

Asked whether he would summon new forces to power, the king replied incisively, obviously desiring to pronounce a credo:

"I shall seek the collaboration of my generation."

"Will Your Majesty be what the Americans call an efficiency expert?" he was asked.

Efficiency Man

Carol smiled for the fifth time during the interview.

"That's it," he replied. "I want to be an efficiency man. I hope to realize my ambition, because I have always been profoundly impressed with United States efficiency. Moreover, I hope again to be able to visit the United States, of which I cherish the fondest recollection."

"He will receive practically the same education and training as all other children of his age."

BY MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Twenty-two Is No Deadline, Either

ONCE upon a time there was a philosopher who wrote, so that the young who run may read:
"After all, it ought never to be forgotten that most of life is lived after thirty-five."

It is a reflection which we want so often to quote to the pathetic youngsters in the late teens and early twenties
Who write us such letters as the following:
"I agree with you and with Barbara Noble,
"Who wrote of nineteen-year-old Jennifer in 'The Years That Take the Best Away,'
"And pointed out that, despite her justifiable transitory rebellion
"Against the nasty breaks life handed her on a none too savory wooden spoon,
"Yet it is what happens to her after twenty that counts.
"But suppose, as in my case, everything goes wrong at nineteen—
"And, even between twenty and twenty-two nothing goes any better?
"Suppose you, at nineteen, were disillusioned in friendship that had lasted ten years.
"Suppose you, at nineteen, had been worshipping a philanthropist and for about five years.
"Suppose, at nineteen, you realized that your mother had not fitted you.
"Really to understand life and its experiences.
"Suppose your suddenly unhappy love affair convinced you
"That you needed more and safer experience before getting married—
"Which is the normal urge and desire of any Jennifer who has had fine social graces and contacts—
"A Jennifer who, up to nineteen was gayly wholesome and in keeping with her flapper era—
"Suppose all this—and THEN suppose
"That for two years, from twenty to twenty-two, you try desperately hard for an interesting job
"And fail to get it?
"I needed such a job, not only for security.
"Not only for getting the things a girl desires, especially at twenty, twenty-one and twenty-two.
"But I needed it in order to make fresh contacts.
"In order to test and develop my strength, self-reliance and essential womanhood.
"An interesting job and friends seemed essential to my balance—
"To help me to follow my innate line of growth.
"Perhaps I am not worth my salt—
"Although I seemed to be before my hour of disillusionment.
"I had been going forward against all obstacles.
"Yes in the last two years I have been lost in a gloomy darkness.
"My personality has become colorless, I have no interest in life.
"I have not found myself—
"Everything at twenty-two seems a barren waste.
"You probably are right in saying, as you did in your fable,
"That the things that happen after twenty matter most.
"But that's why I'm so discouraged and unhappy.
"I'm twenty-two and, in two years, NOTHING worth while has happened to me!
"But, dear girl, when we called attention to the values of life after twenty.
"We certainly did not draw the deadline at the age of twenty-two! All that young fire, in the early twenties as in the late teens, is such a tiny percentage.
"Of all the rest of life, and the good and interesting years it holds.
"If, in your particular case, you haven't obtained the particular job you want.
"With two years of trying for it—
"Why not do a little constructive thinking and planning?
"Maybe you are not naturally qualified for the thing you imagine you'd like best to do.
"On the other hand, maybe you merely need more training of some sort.
"Or a trip to a different community with more chances of employment.
"There are times in the lives of all of us, no matter how happy or fortunate we may seem.
"When we feel ourselves caught in the doldrums.
"Unable to make progress of any sort, and bored to death!
"The trouble is that, when youth passes into these periods, that Uncle It is oppressed with a terrifying sense of finality—

SOMETHING Betty read "Health and Beauty are synonymous," and without reading any further, she plunged into a perfect orgy of athletics. She swam and she rode horseback and she hiked and she golfed, secure in the belief that after a few months of all this sort of thing she would emerge a ravishing reject, or of Hollywood contracts.
But say, Betty acquired pep as a result of her very active way of life, and a sane and joyous point of view on all things, but she got crows feet and lines in her forehead and her skin lost its baby softness and smoothness.
Health is the foundation of beauty. It is true, nevertheless, health is not beauty. Certainly it is no guarantee of skin beauty. As witness the Bettye Sun burns and discolors the skin, wind toughens it, salt water dries it, and certain purified pool water shrivels the skin.

Fitting the Hat for the Wearer of Glasses

A SMART STYLE FOR THE DROOPING HAT. OXFORDS ACCENT THIS HAT. THE OUTLINES OF SPORTS SPEC'S WITH A ROUND, ROUND BERT.
OF LATE we have been so busy letting fashion measure the length of our skirts and the crown copes of our hats that we have remained almost totally blind to the presence of a very real problem which three times each year presents itself to countless women. 'Tis the question of what hat to wear with which glasses, and the counter-question of whether what is selected will be becoming after all.
Clerks bent on selling us hats of their choice (not ours) tell us quite glowingly, "Madame, No hat can look as you'd like to have it with glasses." And off we go with the wrong purchase, actually believing the statement.
Strange it hasn't occurred to us that we should consult a good stylist to see what his or her attitude toward such a question might be. Were we to do so, we should find that since the vogue is all for attention to detail, eyeglasses have come in for their full share of consideration by great couturiers and designers who have all manner of encouraging suggestions to make about them.
But for the three illustrations, for example, who would have thought that three such widely different types of femininity could wear three widely different hats and look so well in three different types of glasses? Certainly the girl to the left is not less demure or lovable for the glasses on her nose; nor have they dimmed the luscious irresistibility of the laughing face above, or toned down by one degree the classic high-hat aloofness of the oxford lady.
It is true that the hats were chosen and fitted by the understanding artist who presides over one of New York's exclusive salons. A lesser authority might have seemed so strongly the individuality of each person. Girlish sweetness, the gay sports type, aristocratic sophistication. The hat is perfect for each girl and her glasses, and her charm remains intact.
Many hints have been given on the subject by other well-known couturiers. Seniors to the slightest error in personal appointments, they have even gone so far as to assist in designing types of glasses for all occasions, to suit different complexions and costumes, so that from morning to night their be-spectacled patrons may be as becomingly hated and gowned as their sisters who need no glasses.
Molyneux—most sophisticated of couturiers—says a bit impatiently, "Wear glasses if you have to, but not as though you were ashamed of them. They need not detract from the beauty of the eye if in choosing them you pick out shapes and colors that harmonize with the shape of the face and the color of the skin."
While Jacques Worth goes a bit further and advises suiting the style of glasses to the gown and the occasion. With dainty and elegant evening gowns he recommends oxfords that can be easily slipped into a bag. For daytime, something in shell, soft in coloring and styled to fit the contour of the face.
Among the newer models many of glasses to be seen, glasses rimmed with shell that is deftly tinted to accent the gold, bronze or silver of one's hair, and one which mounting has a silver-toned base overlaid with a line of dull black. Another has its top curve flattened in a semi-oval effect that is convenient for wear with brimmed hats, in a third a chased gold-bridge gives

Tales That Tables Tell

WHO likes the luxury of breakfast in bed? A morning? Not a feminine voice says no. And a feminine voice says no. And a normal life work shoulder to shoulder with the men. Why not see to it that at least during playdays this treat, which is denied to most of us who are very busy people, is made part of the daily routine? Nothing sets one up so quickly as the sense of luxury inspired by this ceremony which—if we are not hotel apartment dwellers with service within easy reach—even the least devoted sister is willing to contribute to the cause.
At best vacations are as short and gay breakfasts as a New Year's resolution, on to-day, off to-morrow for the rest of the year. Listen, then, to the voice of innocent temptation this once, if never before or again. Just for the furlough, provide yourself with a beautiful, comfortable tray and a gay breakfast set (if the pantry doesn't already possess them), and resolve firmly to have the meal served in bed every day.
"Will be easy to arrange if traveling, but more difficult if at home. If visiting at some one else's, however, you may have to be so discreet as to leave this little tale of the breakfast table lying about where it is sure to be seen by the hostess

Parents' Plans

MRS. GREEN had spent a great deal of money on Dorothy's music lessons; and she had used up a vast amount of energy nagging Dorothy into practicing. But the child seemed to make little progress. Her school teacher suggested that perhaps she wasn't musical and that it probably would be better to allow her to develop her other talents, of which she had many. But Mrs. Green was much annoyed by this suggestion. "Every girl should know how to play the piano," she said. "I wish my mother had allowed me to have lessons when I was young."

Mr. Joseph insisted on his son going to college. Bob didn't want to. He wanted to go right into business after graduating from high school. "I'll never pass those exams," he said, fearfully. And sure enough he didn't. His father had special tutors for him and the boy worked very hard; but his second attempt proved as futile as the first. His health began to give way under the strain of work and discouragement, and his father took him to a physician. The doctor, finding him all right physically, gave him some mental tests. "Why, man," he said to Bob's father, "you have no right trying to shove this boy into college. He isn't college material. Let him go to work as he wishes!" So Mr. Joseph very reluctantly consented; and to-day Bob Joseph is a most successful business man.

So often parents want to see their unfulfilled desires brought to fruition in their children's lives. Because Mrs. Green wasn't given the musical education she craved, she wanted to see her desire to be a musician accomplished by her daughter. Because Mr. Joseph was deprived of the opportunity of going to college he wanted his son to go in his stead, so to speak, and live his own life, independent of his parents' plans and wishes. We should study our children in order to determine their abilities and interests, and then, keeping hands off, we should allow them to develop according to their individual natures and aptitudes!

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith
IN THREE days of hurry and rush would it not be a good idea to stop and think what you are feeding that husband of yours?
There are so many women who do not think of how things TASTE. There are others who never think how food looks on the table.
One of the things which need attention is the butter. It picks up tastes with remarkable accuracy and if you happen to pile it in the ice box along with the fish you will have some sweet smelling and some sweet tasting butter.
If you would like to have more money, pay attention to your husband's likes and dislikes. Bless your heart, he will tell you very plainly what they are!

RESUME OF PROHIBITION HEARINGS
A COMPLETE review of the sixth and seventh months of the Senate's seven-month Prohibition investigation:
SIXTH MONTH. Senator Smoot (dry) admitted he did not vote as his constituents think. If his constituents could think, he would not be their Senator. The Chairman cross-examined him.
CHAIRMAN—Senator Smoot, what salaries are paid Uncle Sam's enforcement officials?
SMOOTH—The revenue agents get $2,000 to $3,500 per.
CHAIRMAN—Per what?
SMOOTH—Per load.
The W. C. T. U. was investigated the following day. The committee voted to present the temperance ladies with a bouquet of flowers. The wets sent in Four Roses in a non-refillable basket.
Mrs. Wunsel explained how the W. C. T. U. put Prohibition over. During the hottest part of the fight they distributed seventeen miles of white ribbon and showed 2,750,000 square feet of stereopticon pictures. The Nation rolled over and went dry.
The next day Benjamin Tarsus, a reformed drunkard, took the stand. He described how canned heat once knocked him cold.
CHAIRMAN—Mr. Tarsus, tell us your life story, without detours.
TARSUS—Well, Senator, it was like this: I was headed for a drunkard's grave.
CHAIRMAN—What detained you?
TARSUS—One night I caught lodging in a hotel. It was crowded and I could only get a room with a Bible. That night I sat up reading instead of taking a bath.
CHAIRMAN—What story did you read in the Bible?
TARSUS—The one about the foolish virgins that went without fuel oil in their flasks. It taught me a lesson in preparedness.
The seventh month opened strong. F. Scott McBride objected to the wet

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically. It can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

SHOW OF SHOWS
 by WILLARD KEEFE

Copyright 1929, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"Show of Shows," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone picture was the source for the material on which these stories are based.

SYNOPSIS
 Harry Cronk, Hollywood press agent, introduces Leo Hanton to Queenie Quinn, script girl on the Warner lot, who lands Leo in the cast of "Show of Shows." Being extra in a picture with 100 stars discourages Hanton. Queenie pep him up and advises that he learn the "inside" of talking picture production. He witnesses the shooting of several scenes of the revue and is puzzled to know how the completed picture will be assembled.

INSTALLMENT SEVEN
 In furtherance of his education, Leo began the new day resolved to find out something about the designing and building of sets. He naturally hesitated to consult Max Parker, to whom the "Show of Shows" settings were credited, but he realized that no other person would be of much help to him. He enjoyed a break in luck, however, in encountering Chester Morris in the studio restaurant when he dropped in for his morning's coffee. He had met Morris, an able performer recruited from the speaking stage, several days earlier and ful job for the Chinese Number. Suppose we look it over." Fortunately the set was unoccupied when they arrived. They were thus able to study it in what amounted to "the rough." Without benefit of lights it was somberly impressive. It was erected on an enormous stage. Before a figured backdrop designed, Morris explained to Leo, to "take the lights with the best possible effect, stood three Chinese pagodas, set in a semi-circle.

The center structure was larger than the other two which, of similar size and design stood on either side. The larger one had four curved roofs, graduating into a sort of steeple. All the roofs were tiled. The back drape parted behind the tiled entrance of the center pagoda. A dozen huge bronze vases symmetrically arranged, were set downstage from either side of the center structure. Altogether it was the most colorful bit of architectural design Leo had ever beheld.

But he was to marvel even more when, accompanied by Queenie, he returned to the set during a rehearsal of the Chinese number. Illumined, its beauty became indescribable. The pagodas and drapes rippled with colors which had eluded the inspection of both Morris and himself. His respect for Mr. Parker and the electricians mounted mightily.

Shortly thereafter he included Paul Luck, the costume designer, in his new collection of heroes. A chorus of one hundred and twenty-five girls in exquisite Chinese costumes performed an Oriental ballet before the pagodas. Later, when, by good luck, he managed to see the rushes of this number, he appreciated how effectively the scene, filmed in natural color, had been captured and how perfectly the mood of the dance was attuned to that of the set.

This glamorous setting also served as a background for an engaging scene between Myrna Loy and Nick Lucas. Garbed in the jeweled habiliments of a Chinese princess, Miss Loy did a interpretative Chinese dance, as Mr. Lucas crooned "Li-Po-Li," a song remarkably well "placed" in the phrase of the composer, Eddie Ward in an Oriental setting.

"I wonder," said Leo doubtfully, "if I'm getting anywhere."

"Getting anywhere?" repeated Queenie.

"Yes," he continued. "The more I see the more convinced I become that everything's over my head. Now, where did Mr. Parker ever get all those ideas? It doesn't seem possible that one person could conceive such a setting and then make it actually take form."

"Well, don't be distressed about it," advised Queenie. "Don't forget Mr. Parker had his heartbreaks, too, when he was learning. Only they meant more to him because it was his career; to you it's only a casual study."

"What worries me," muttered Leo disconsolately, "is what I'll eventually be."

"Oh, you're a nice boy anyway, Leo," said Queenie. "That's a pretty nice career, don't you think?"

"You wouldn't kid me, would you?"

"Who wouldn't?" she returned. "Down in your heart you know, Queenie," went on Leo, "that I'm on my way to become one of the big shots of this lot. Why not admit it? And when I am, I'm coming around to remind you of your stephens. Don't forget it."

"Oh," chimed the girl, "you won't even remember me."

"Won't I though? Say, what's going to become of our bridge four-some?"

"And listen," he added brightly, "by that time I can probably afford to play for a quarter of a cent."

"It's a date then?" asked Queenie. "Agreed."

HALL TELLS OF SCOUT TRIP TO PARK

A tale of adventure that any boy would be proud of was contained in a letter sent by Eagle Scout Lloyd Hall of Richmond to his parents in Richmond yesterday.

Hall is a member of the Boy Scout expedition which is now touring our national parks.

In his letter Hall tells of the auto trip from Oakland to the Grand Canyon and stresses the heat that the expedition encountered during their trip to Needles.

At the present time the boys have set up a camp at the Grand Canyon and are being taken on a tour.

Hall declared that the camp is two miles from the rim of the canyon and apart from the tourist auto camp grounds.

The park service has supplied the boys with every necessity.

Squirrels are making themselves at home at the camp, Hall wrote. He declared that the little animals get into the bread and eat it, leaving nothing but the crust.

A turtle mascot that the boys captured has proven to be a problem as they do not know just how to keep it.

During the camp the boys are holding nature study courses.

Star Mother Writes Letter

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Martin have received one of the first letters to reach here from the Richmond Gold Star mothers, who are now homeward bound from a pilgrimage to the graves of their sons in France. The letter was from Mrs. Essie Garvin, and is as follows:

"Well (we have had a wonderful trip ever since we left Richmond. We left New York May 28 at 12 o'clock, and this p. m. at about four or five o'clock will stop at Plymouth, England, to discharge some passengers, but we will not be permitted to get off. Then we go on to Cherbourg, France, arriving there sometime in the night, but we will not get off the boat until in the morning after breakfast.

"The ocean has been very calm all of the way. Some of the passengers were quite seasick, but I have not felt the least bit sick. In fact, I have had three good meals every day and such wonderful meals and service all over the boat.

"I will mail this letter on board this boat, and it will take a U. S. stamp, but after we land it will have to be a French stamp on all mail.

"Love and best wishes,
"ESSIE GARVIN."

STOCKS GAIN AFTER BIG CRASH

NEW YORK, June 19.—UP—Sweeping recoveries on the stock exchange today more than made up losses incurred yesterday and after the close new developments of vast importance to the financial community were published.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscount rate was reduced from 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent, the latter being the lowest rate in the history of the federal reserve. Broker's loans for the week ended yesterday, dropped $211,000,000 to $3,787,000,000, the lowest since 1912. This reflected the tremendous liquidation which has been going on in the market recently, and pointed to a change in holders of stocks from weak to strong accounts.

Commodities rallied with stock markets. Confidence was returning to Wall Street and as it gathered momentum today Bears took fright and covered their short lines.

The rise gathered momentum as the day wore on. At the opening there was some selling of weakly margined accounts where new funds were not forthcoming, but demand by investors and shorts took all the stock placed on the market and most issues opened higher.

Only a small amount of profit taking occurred near the close.

Sales today were down almost 50 per cent from yesterday, totaling 3,762,500 shares, against 6,425,630 in the previous session.

Tickers were clear most of the day and able to print sales on inactive issues usually held over until the close.

SORE FEET LAID TO PAVEMENT OF CITY

"Why do so many people suffer today from foot troubles?" This question was asked yesterday of T. Barbikas, of the B. B. Shoe Store.

"Undoubtedly," said Barbikas, "the hard pavements have had much to do with producing broken down arches, extreme tiredness, burning sensations, painful heels, corns, callouses and similar foot discomforts. On the other hand, poorly fitting shoes may have contributed largely to bring about these conditions."

Mr. Barbikas, who has studied foot correction under the direction of Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, the nationally known foot authority, says regardless of cause, there is a remedy for every foot trouble.

Barbikas is now making preparations for his store to participate in what is known as Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Week. This will be held from June 14 to 21. He explained that thousands of leading shoe dealers throughout the United States and Canada will make a special effort to relieve foot suffering and see that persons calling at his store are fitted with comfortable, stylish shoes.

In this connection he made the interesting assertion that Dr. Scholl has perfected an appliance or remedy for every foot trouble, and that his method of foot correction was scientific, accurate, and absolutely dependable. No special shoes were necessary for with the proper appliance correctly fitted, any shoe, he declared, could be made an anatomical shoe.

"Foot Comfort Week" is going to be a revelation to many people who never dreamed there was such a thing as relief from foot troubles," said Mr. Barbikas. "It has been proven that if the bones of the foot are properly supported, as they are with Dr. Scholl's appliances in shoes that fit, they gradually resume their normal position and function in a way that not only provides comfort but maintains the neat, stylish appearance of the shoe."

Mr. Barbikas said that Foot Comfort Week was the time for everybody to be good to their feet.
